

Daisy Robinson - History Leader

Leading History is a subject I am passionate about as I love teaching a range of eras and getting children excited about and learning from the past. History lessons are an integral part of the National Curriculum and allows for many cross-curricular links that get children enthused whilst learning knowledge and skills. Creating the curriculum map has allowed me to see the progression across all year groups and between topics. History lessons blend brilliantly with British Values and Global Goals making children responsible global citizens. My organisational skills ensure that all children, across school, go on termly visits and are always exploring, dreaming and discovering.

My favourite History topic is The Victorians.
