

Miss Easby, EYFS TA

Being outside and the outside area is something I am passionate about. Being outside is not only important for our physical health but also mental health. Keeping the outside area safe, tidy and inviting is an essential part of my job so that children have an interesting and inviting outdoor environment to engage in. Children can show skills outside that we don't always see inside such as managing risks and awe and wonder of the world.

